

D&O for the Blockchain Industry

Who Does it Protect?

Directors and Officers (D&O) coverage is critical. Providing a professional service to clients is an important part of any cryptocurrency exchange's operations. All exchanges strive to do this with the utmost integrity and professionalism. Unfortunately, and at times unintentionally, this is not always the case.

Cryptocurrency exchanges can be affected by litigation against their management team, board of directors, and company. They may need to compensate clients for errors and oversights that occur. All of which can be costly distractions for the business.

Our products are specifically created to protect:

- Cryptocurrency exchanges and their management teams
- Directors and officers of cryptocurrency exchanges

Key Coverages

- Claims arising from wrongful acts in their management or stewardship of the exchange.
- Preservation of limit for claims related to cryptocurrency regulations
- Crisis Management. Preventative Public Relation expenses to negate or reduce any unfavourable public exposure from a potential claim.
- Cover for civil fines and penalties against insured persons where insurable by law.

What Limits do we Offer?

- We offer policy limits of up to €20m.

Tailored Extensions for Digital Asset Firms

- Initial Coin & Token Offerings extension with additional limits
- Hot Wallet Custody covering governance lapses over wallet security, private key management and custodian selection.
- Additional limits for non-executive directors for non-indemnifiable losses
- Stablecoin Liquidity Risk covering mismanagement of reserves
- Outside directorship cover and unlimited lifetime cover for retired directors and officers
- Tax liability cover for insured persons in the event of personal liability as a result of company insolvency
